Privacy Notice (How we use pupil information) At Walsh Memorial CE Infant School

Under data protection law, individuals have a right to be informed about how the school uses any personal data that we hold about them. We comply with this right by providing 'privacy notices' (sometimes called 'fair processing notices') to individuals where we are processing their personal data.

This privacy notice explains how we collect, store and use personal data about pupils.

We, Walsh Memorial CE Infant School, Ash Street, Ash, Surrey GU12 6LT, are the 'data controller' for the purposes of data protection law.

Our data protection officer is the School Business Manager (see 'Contact us' below).

The categories of pupil information that we process include:

- ✓ personal identifiers and contacts (such as name, unique pupil number, contact details and address)
- ✓ characteristics (such as ethnicity, language, and free school meal eligibility)
- ✓ safeguarding information (such as court orders and professional involvement)
- ✓ special educational needs (including the needs and ranking)
- ✓ medical and administration (such as doctors information, child health, dental health, allergies, medication and dietary requirements)
- ✓ attendance (such as sessions attended, number of absences, absence reasons and any previous schools attended)
- ✓ assessment and attainment (such as EYFS, key stage 1 and phonics results,
- ✓ behavioural information (such as exclusions and any relevant alternative provision put in place)

We may also hold data about pupils that we have received from other organisations, including other schools, local authorities and the Department for Education.

Why we collect and use pupil information

We collect and use pupil information, for the following purposes:

- a) to support pupil learning
- b) to monitor and report on pupil attainment progress
- c) To protect pupil welfare
- d) to provide appropriate pastoral care
- e) to assess the quality of our services
- f) to keep children safe (food allergies, or emergency contact details)
- g) to meet the statutory duties placed upon us for DfE data collections
- h) comply with the law regarding data sharing

Under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), the lawful bases we rely on for processing pupil information are:

We only collect and use pupils' personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we process it where:

- ✓ We need to comply with a legal obligation
- ✓ We need it to perform an official task in the public interest

Less commonly, we may also process pupils' personal data in situations where:

- ✓ We have obtained consent to use it in a certain way
- ✓ We need to protect the individual's vital interests (or someone else's interests) Where we have obtained consent to use pupils' personal data, this consent can be withdrawn at any time. We will make this clear when we ask for consent, and explain how consent can be withdrawn.

Some of the reasons listed above for collecting and using pupils' personal data overlap, and there may be several grounds which justify our use of this data.

How we collect pupil information

We collect pupil information via registration forms at the start of the school year and Common Transfer File (CTF) or secure file transfer from previous school

Department for Education

We are required to provide information about pupils to the Department for Education as part of statutory data collections such as the school census and early years census.

Some of this information is then stored in the National Pupil Database (NPD), which is owned and managed by the Department and provides evidence on school performance to inform research.

The database is held electronically so it can easily be turned into statistics. The information is securely collected from a range of sources including schools, local authorities and exam boards.

The Department for Education may share information from the NPD with other organisations which promote children's education or wellbeing in England. Such organisations must agree to strict terms and conditions about how they will use the data.

For more information, see the Department's webpage on how it collects and shares research data.

Transferring data internationally

Where we transfer personal data to a country or territory outside the European Economic Area, we will do so in accordance with data protection law.

All data is transferred securely and held by DfE under a combination of software and hardware controls, which meet the current government security policy framework.

For more information, please see 'How Government uses your data' section.

How Government uses your data

The pupil data that we lawfully share with the DfE through data collections:

- underpins school funding, which is calculated based upon the numbers of children and their characteristics in each school.
- informs 'short term' education policy monitoring and school accountability and intervention (for example, school GCSE results or Pupil Progress measures).
- supports 'longer term' research and monitoring of educational policy (for example how certain subject choices go on to affect education or earnings beyond school)

Data collection requirements

To find out more about the data collection requirements placed on us by the Department for Education (for example; via the school census) go to <https://www.gov.uk/education/data-collection-and-censuses-for-schools>

The National Pupil Database (NPD)

Much of the data about pupils in England goes on to be held in the National Pupil Database (NPD).

The NPD is owned and managed by the Department for Education and contains information about pupils in schools in England. It provides invaluable evidence on educational performance to inform independent research, as well as studies commissioned by the Department.

It is held in electronic format for statistical purposes. This information is securely collected from a range of sources including schools, local authorities and awarding bodies.

To find out more about the NPD, go to <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/national-pupil-database-user-guide-and-supporting-information>

Sharing by the Department

The law allows the Department to share pupils' personal data with certain third parties, including:

- schools
- local authorities
- researchers
- organisations connected with promoting the education or wellbeing of children in England
- other government departments and agencies
- organisations fighting or identifying crime

For more information about the Department's NPD data sharing process, please visit:

<https://www.gov.uk/data-protection-how-we-collect-and-share-research-data>

Organisations fighting or identifying crime may use their legal powers to contact DfE to request access to individual level information relevant to detecting that crime. Whilst numbers fluctuate slightly over time, DfE typically supplies data on around 600 pupils per year to the Home Office and roughly 1 per year to the Police.
